New Mexico Career Development Association Presents:
Shifting Gears: Career Development
During COVID-19

Sessions include:

Strategic Foresight the World of Covid-19 - Bill Meador and Bob Grassberger

This session will explore possibilities for strategic foresight and the future of career development in the world of Covid-19. The intent is not to predict the future but to understand how to influence possible futures in career development. The presenters will also discuss planning for alternative and plausible futures for attendee's career development.

Managing Anxiety During a COVID Job Search – Marty Apodaca and Elena Matthews

This session will cover an overall view of how job search is impacted by COVID-19. This includes going over signs and symptoms of anxiety in the context of job search during COVID19. There will be tips and strategies provided to help career professionals assist their clients through anxiety and lead them to feelings of empowerment and hope. Lastly, there will be specific job search tips that demonstrate how one can still have a productive job search during COVID-19.

Discussion: What are your strategies for working with clients who are job searching during a pandemic?

During this session, participants will have a chance to share their ideas for working with clients, and connect with other career practitioners.
